

B1

ABSTRACT

A firearms storage safe which transforms into a display case for firearms contained therein. The doors of the safe are shaped and moveable such that the internal surface of the doors can, when a door is swung open, be employed for hanging and displaying of weapons and, when a door is swung closed, be employed for securing the weapons within the safe without the need to remove the weapons from their hung and displayed location.